Why PayPal partners with Bellevue University to offer valuable education services.

“At PayPal, we are constantly innovating to create amazing experiences for our customers. We encourage our employees to focus on continuous development, so we evolve as a company.

That’s where Bellevue University comes in. They offer innovative solutions that eliminate or minimize roadblocks that get in the way of employee access to advanced education. Whether it was matching our PayPal educational assistance, bringing classes to our PayPal campus, or creating new degree programs – Bellevue University is always open to working with us to make our employees’ educational goals possible.

We have worked with Bellevue University for many years and, together, we have watched hundreds of our colleagues continue their education and achieve their career goals.”
